HOLISTIC IMPRESSION OF PERFORMANCE IN TEACHING EVENT
(Circle one)

We would like to collect your impression of the performance in the Teaching Event independent of the PACT scoring system. Please use your personal criteria for judging beginning teaching to answer the following question: If the evidence of teaching practice in this Teaching Event were typical of a candidate’s current level of practice, what would be your recommendation with respect to awarding them a teaching credential? (Circle one number)

1
Would not recommend for a Teaching Credential at this time (candidate’s areas of weakness cause concerns for being the teacher of record)

2
Recommendation for a Teaching Credential (has areas of strength that will carry candidate while s/he works on areas that need improvement)

3
Strong recommendation for a Teaching Credential (solid foundation of beginning teaching skills)

4
Strong recommendation with distinction for a Teaching Credential (exceptional performance for a beginner)

Comments/Concerns/Interesting Issues raised by this Teaching Event (record more general comments/concerns on your Scorer Feedback form):

OR
- The clips do not focus on understanding, interpreting, or responding to a text that is complex relative to current student development.

OR
- Classroom management is problematic and student behavior interferes with learning.

Level 2
- Strategies for intellectual engagement seen in the clips offer opportunities for students to develop their own abilities to understand, interpret, or respond to the complex features of the text.

Level 3
- Strategies for intellectual engagement seen in the clips offer structured opportunities for students to actively develop their own abilities to understand, interpret, or respond to the complex features of the text.

- These strategies reflect attention to student characteristics, learning needs, and/or language needs.

Level 4
- Strategies for intellectual engagement seen in the clips offer structured opportunities for students to actively develop their own abilities to understand, interpret, or respond to the complex features of the text.

- These strategies are explicit, and clearly reflect attention to students with diverse characteristics, learning needs, and/or language needs.

5 Text types can be oral (e.g., formal presentations, role play activities, arguments and counterarguments, partner or group discussions) and/or written (e.g., literary critiques, expository essays, narratives).

6 In addition to text types, examples might include understanding a teacher’s oral presentation of information, responding to a question in class, listening to or reading directions, sharing information orally with a partner, or compiling information on a graphic organizer.

7 For example, common words that are new to English learners, synonyms used interchangeably, content terms with distinctive meanings from their everyday equivalents.

\(^8\) Core content is the set of facts, concepts, skills, and abilities that are absolutely necessary to participate at least minimally in the learning/assessment tasks in the learning segment.

\(^9\) Such support might include one or more of the following: modeling of strategies for comprehending or constructing texts such as a sonnet; explicit communication of the expected features of oral or written texts (e.g., using rubrics, models, and frames); use of strategies that provide visual representations of content while promoting literacy development (e.g., graphic organizers); vocabulary development techniques (context cues, categorization, analysis of word parts, etc.); opportunities to work together with students with different kinds of language and literacy skills, etc.
