

California State University Channel Islands
Liberal Studies: Teaching and Learning
Emphasis 2020-2021

Human Development and Psychology Concentration

The Human Development and Psychology Concentration will be useful for students with an interest in issues of human development and will help build a strong background for working with students in the classroom. It is recommended for students intending to become Education Specialist (Special Education teachers) K-12.

Complete a minimum of nine units of psychology courses, at least three of the nine units must be upper division.